

Oils & fats

We are in association with a company which specializes in collecting residue from vegetable oils which are in turn converted into Bio Diesel. Given the high demand of these types of products, our supply is limited. We also cater (Bio Energising Fat) to the international market. This product derives from cattle which is obtained through the process of fatty tissue which undergoes a thermal process under controlled pressure. It provides double the amount of energy from corn which promotes a diet high in nutritional value. Utilizing the correct quantities of proteins and aminoacids will lead to higher productivity.

Provides essential fatty acids which are vital for a healthy organism.
